

KANSAS LEGISLATIVE INSIGHTS NEWSLETTER | MARCH 3, 2025

WEEK 7 – ROLLING INTO THE SECOND HALF OF THE LEGISLATIVE SESSION

PROPOSAL TO ELECT SUPREME COURT JUSTICES ADVANCES

The Senate Committee on Federal and State Affairs has advanced Senate Concurrent Resolution 1611 (SCR 1611), a constitutional amendment that would replace Kansas' merit-based system for appointing Supreme Court justices with direct elections.

Key Changes and Debate

Kansas currently uses a merit-based system in which a Supreme Court Nominating Commission selects three candidates for vacancies on the Supreme Court. The governor appoints one, and justices face retention votes. The current merit-based selection process for Kansas Supreme Court justices was established through a 1958 constitutional amendment in response to the “triple play” political scandal. The system ensures justices are chosen based on qualifications, rather than political influence. SCR 1611 would eliminate this system, allowing direct voter election to six-year terms. Elections would be staggered, with three justices selected in 2028, two in 2030, and two in 2032.

Supporters, led by Senate President Ty Masterson (R-Andover), argue elections will make justices accountable to voters and reduce the influence of unelected attorneys. “Right now, we have a process controlled by an elite group behind closed doors,” Sen. Masterson said.

Opponents, including the Kansas Bar Association, Wichita Bar Association, and civil rights groups, warn the change would politicize the judiciary, introduce special-interest money into campaigns, and erode judicial independence. Attorney Fred Logan, representing the Kansas Bar Association, argued that the current system ensures justices are chosen for legal expertise rather than political connections.

Amendments Before Passage

A key point of debate was on an amendment to schedule the first election during the November 2026 general election ballot rather than the August 2026 primary.

- Sen. Marci Francisco (D-Lawrence), offered the amendment for the November date, citing higher voter turnout.
- Sen. Mike Thompson (R-Shawnee), the committee chair, argued for keeping the August date as it would avoid being overshadowed by the gubernatorial race. The amendment failed and Sen. Thompson's argument prevailed.

Next Steps

The resolution now moves to the full Senate, requiring a two-thirds majority in both chambers before it can be placed on the 2026 ballot. If it secures a two-thirds majority in both chambers, Kansas voters will decide in August 2026 whether to maintain the current merit-based system or shift to electing justices — potentially reshaping the state's Supreme Court for decades.

WATER COMMITTEE WADES INTO FLUORIDE

The House Water Committee held an informational meeting on Feb. 27 to discuss fluoridation in public water systems. Supporters and opponents presented arguments on the practice's benefits and risks.

Representatives from the Kansas Dental Association, Oral Health Kansas, and Abilene dentist Dr. Beatrice Brittan provided testimony in support of adding fluoride because of its emphasized role in:

- Preventing cavities and tooth decay.
- Providing topical protection when consumed.
- Aiding the development of children's permanent teeth.

Fluoride occurs naturally in water. Public Water Systems (PWS) adjust levels to the recommended 0.7 parts per million — roughly a teaspoon in a swimming pool.

Opponents argued that since water already contains fluoride, additional amounts may provide no further benefits and could be harmful. They cited scientific studies warning of potential health risks.

Kansas law does not currently require fluoridation. K.S.A. 65-171m provides:

"No primary drinking water standard or rule and regulation may require the addition of fluorides to public water supplies."

Most Kansas communities monitor fluoride levels annually, while groundwater supplies undergo testing every three years. Of the state's over 850 Community Water Systems and 30 Non-Transient, Non-Community Systems (NTNCS) — which include self-supplied schools and industries — only 53 PWS actively fluoridate their water supply.

The discussion extends beyond Kansas. In Utah, a bill would mandate fluoridation in public water systems, overriding local decisions. The measure awaits the governor's action.

The Kansas House Water Committee took no action.
