OVERVIEW

With an established reputation for quality, integrity, and client satisfaction throughout Kansas and beyond, Foulston Siefkin's Litigation & Disputes Practice Group handles a broad array of commercial and complex disputes for clients ranging from Fortune 500 companies, closely held businesses, startups, and individuals to government entities, educational institutions, and nonprofits. The practice's work encompasses high-profile, bet-the-company litigation, as well as actions necessary to help and protect small businesses and individuals. The firm's litigators prosecute and defend all types of civil litigation, ranging from complex class action and antitrust cases to ordinary breach of contract and negligence matters.

Located in Wichita, Kansas City, and Topeka, Foulston Siefkin's attorneys have extensive experience in local, state, and federal trial and appellate courts, as well as in many types of administrative and specialty proceedings. They are equally adept at providing strategic litigation-avoidance counsel and negotiating favorable out-of-court resolutions through alternative dispute resolution. The practice is known for its rapid response to emergency litigation, such as obtaining or defending against restraining orders and injunctions; its robust e-discovery capabilities; and the ability to draft and argue persuasive motions.

Keeping each client's goals in mind, the firm's attorneys strive to deliver efficient, cost-effective representation by taking a practical, common sense approach to litigation. Foulston Siefkin represents companies and executives from a cross-section of industries, serving as lead counsel for many global corporations headquartered in Kansas or Missouri and companies that do business in the region. The firm is also frequently engaged by national and international law firms to serve as local Kansas or Missouri counsel to their clients.

Chambers USA, Best Lawyers, Benchmark Litigation, and other leading industry guides regularly cite Foulston Siefkin's Litigation Practice Group and its attorneys for excellence. In addition, several members of the litigation team have been inducted into the American College of Trial Lawyers.
