KANSAS LEGISLATIVE INSIGHTS NEWSLETTER | JUNE 14, 2022

June 14, 2022

PRIMARY ELECTION FILINGS

Noon on June 1 was the deadline for candidates to file for statewide offices. United States Sen. Jerry Moran will have one primary opponent, Joan Farr of Derby, and six Democrats running in the August primary to oppose him in November. The high-profile statewide races are for Governor and Attorney General. Republican Attorney General Derek Schmidt, Independence, with running mate Katie Sawyer, McPherson, are seeking to oppose Democratic Governor Laura Kelly and Lt. Governor David Toland's re-election bid. Both slates have opposition in their respective primary elections.

The vacated Attorney General's Office has generated a three-way Republican primary election between Kris Kobach, Tony Mattivi, and Senator Kelli Warren. Chris Mann is the only Democrat on the primary ballot for Attorney General. Democratic State Treasurer Lynn Rogers will be opposed by either Republican Rep. Steven Johnson or Sen. Caryn Tyson. In addition to these statewide races, Senate District 38 in southwest Kansas will have an election after Sen. Ron Ryckman Sr. was selected as the successor to the late Sen. Bud Estes. He will be opposed by Democrat Jose Lara of Liberal.

After the extended June 10 filing deadline for the Legislature and several last minute withdrawals, we are looking at 24 incumbents who are not seeking reelection. The 2023 Kansas House of Representatives will have new leadership with the retirement of three term House Speaker Ron Ryckman Jr. and Speaker Pro Tem Blaine Finch.

After the passage of the noon Friday deadline, there are 55 candidates, 36 Republicans and 19 Democrats, without opposition in the August primary and the General Election. These individuals will be serving in the 2023 Legislature unless one is defeated by a candidate running a successful write-in campaign or third-party candidate winning in the General Election.

August 1 is the deadline for Libertarian and Independent candidates to file for the General Election. Libertarians have an election process for their candidates. Independent candidates file by petition. Republican State Sen. Dennis Pyle has already announced that he is changing parties to become an independent and filing by petition to run for Governor as an independent.

LOSS OF INSTITUTIONAL MEMORY

There will be leadership changes in the 2023 Kansas House of Representatives beyond the retirement of House Speaker Ron Ryckman Jr. and Speaker Pro Tem Blaine Finch. The impact of the retirements will also be felt at the committee level next session with nine committee chairs, four vice-chairs, three ranking minority members, and a former House Minority Leader not seeking re-election. Depending on your perspective, this may reflect a loss of institutional knowledge which can be vital to the process. The announced retirements are:

- Rep. Dave Baker, R-Council Grove
- Rep. Jesse Burris, R-Mulvane
- Rep. Tom Burroughs, D-Kansas City, former House Minority Leader
- Rep. Stephanie Byers, D-Wichita
- Rep. Lonnie Clark, R-Junction City, Chair, Veterans and Military
- Rep. Blaine Finch, R-Ottawa, Chair, Energy, Utilities and Telecommunications
- Rep. David French, R-Lansing
- Rep. Gail Finney, D-Wichita
- Rep. Jim Gartner, D-Topeka, Ranking Minority Member, Taxation Committee
- Rep. Broderick Henderson, D-Kansas City
- Rep. Ron Highland, R-Wamego, Chair, Water Committee
- Rep. Steve Huebert, R-Valley Center, Chair, Education Committee
- Rep. Steven Johnson, R-Assaria, Chair, Insurance and Pensions
- Rep. Jim Kelly, R-Independence, Chair, Financial Institutions and Rural Development
- Rep. Annie Kuether, D-Topeka, Ranking Minority, Energy, Utilities and Telecommunications
- Rep. Marty Long, R-Ulysses, Vice Chair, Commerce, Labor and Economic Development
- Rep. Megan Lynn, R-Olathe, Vice Chair, Social Services Budget
- Rep. Kathy Wolfe Moore, D-Kansas City, Ranking Minority Member of Appropriations and Legislative budget Committee
- Rep. Boyd Orr, R-Fowler, Vice Chair, Water Committee
- Rep. Richard Proehl, R-Parsons, Chair, Transportation Committee
- House Speaker Ron Ryckman Jr., R-Olathe, Chair of Legislative Coordinating Council
- Rep. Kent Thompson, R-La Harpe, Chair of Local Government
- Rep. John Toplikar, R-Olathe, Vice-Chair Legislative Post Audit
- Rep. Ponka-We Victors, D-Wichita

MAY REVENUE POSITIVE

The Kansas Department of Revenue announced that the May Kansas revenue numbers were above the monthly estimate by $242 million. For the current fiscal year ending June 30, revenue is more than $419 million above the projections.
