KANSAS LEGISLATIVE INSIGHTS NEWSLETTER | MARCH 10, 2023

WEEK 9 REVIEW

The regular 2023 Legislature session is rapidly drawing to a close with only two weeks left for committees to consider non-exempt bills. Major pieces of legislation are moving through the legislative process. The week started with the House K-12 Education Budget Committee hearing SB 83, providing scholarships to attend non-public schools and tax credits for contributions to private schools. The Committee added amendments increasing funding for special education and another requiring school districts to pay inflation-tracking salaries to public schoolteachers at an estimated cost of $85 million annually. This would be in addition to anything the school districts have already negotiated with their teachers. The bill passed along party lines.

Tuesday, the Senate Federal and State Affairs Committee started two days of hearings on legislation prohibiting investment decisions of government and pension systems based on Environmental/Social/Governance (ESG) principles. Wednesday, Kansas Public Employees Retirement System (KPERs) Executive Director Alan Conroy testified that prohibiting KPERs from ESG investments could cost more than $3 billion to the fund during the next 10 years because the bill would force divestitures of existing investments and result in overall reduced returns.

On Thursday, the House Utilities Committee approved a compromise bill between Evergy, the Kansas Corporation Commission, and advocates for lower electric rates that addresses cost savings for transmission charges on customer bills. The bill provides more state oversight on how Evergy recovers costs when investing in local transmission projects. The compromise lowers the amount of return on equity Evergy receives from construction of local transmission lines. The compromise is projected to save ratepayers nearly $11 million initially and $2 million annually in the future. House Energy, Utilities and Telecommunications Chair Leo Delperdang, R-Wichita, noted it is a step forward for something that affects the entire state. The compromise bill will result in a 47 cent per month residential savings for customers in Evergy's central Kansas territory (former Westar customers) and 30 cent per month savings for Kansas City metro customers (former KCP&L customers).

Thursday, Pat Hubbell, representing the Kansas Railroad Association, opposed a bill limiting freight trains to a length of 8,500 feet. The railroads noted that the length of trains is growing because of the demand for transportation of products. The length of trains is also growing to meet the need to move freight economically and responsibly. He noted that shorter trains means more trucks on the road. Proponents note that the shorter trains reduce time while track crossings are closed.

Thursday, the Senate Ways and Means Committee passed its budget bill. The committee identified items that must wait for final consideration until omnibus budget bill discussions begin. The House is expected to finalize its budget proposal early next week.

FLOOR ACTION

Wednesday, House Concurrent Resolution 5005, for a limited national convention for the exclusive purpose of proposing an amendment to the Constitution limiting terms for members of Congress, failed on a 69-54 vote. The Resolution needed 84 votes. There was concern that a convention of states could not be limited to addressing only one issue.

Thursday, the Senate passed HB 2238, creating the Fairness in Women's Sports Act, restricting participation on women's teams to female students. The measure passed 28-11. Gov. Laura Kelly has vetoed similar bills in 2020 and 2021. In February, the House approved the measure 82-40 with several members absent who have supported the legislation in the past. In 2022, the Senate overrode the veto, and the House was three votes short of the needed 84 votes (two-thirds).

Thursday, the Kansas House approved HB 2106, authorizing a $17 million annual sales tax exemption for telecommunication companies purchasing machinery and equipment with the promise that the tax break would allow for expansion of high-speed internet in Kansas. A floor amendment was added to end the tax break in 2028. The House voted 108-13 to send the bill to the Senate. AT&T and T-Mobile were advocates for the bill. The House also approved HB 2304, concerning standardizing firearm safety education training in school districts. The vote was 78-43.

WEEK 10 PREVIEW

Next week, the House Taxation Committee will hear Senate bills on the flat tax, sales tax on food, exempting Social Security benefits from income tax, and the Kansas Film and Digital Media Industry Production Development Act.

Both chambers will hear marijuana bills. The Senate Federal and State Affairs Committee will hear SB 135, creating the Medical Cannabis Regulation Act. The House Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee will hear HB 2168, allowing hemp fiber, grain, and seeds to be used as food for livestock, poultry, and pets.

The House Appropriations Committee will finalize its budget. The House Elections Committee will take final action on Senate bills addressing advance ballots and write-in candidates.

BILL INTRODUCTIONS AND NOTABLE DEVELOPMENTS
