PROFILE

Don Berner has more than 25 years of experience providing advice and counsel to employers on a wide range of matters involving the employment relationship. He has worked with employers across a broad range of industries that vary in size from small businesses to Fortune 500 companies. Don's years of experience allow him to provide practical solutions for employers that serve the individualized needs of his clients. Don regularly provides advice and assistance to clients on a diverse range of workplace issues relating to best employment practices and employee benefits management. He conducts training for employers and management teams on a vast range of topics in these areas.

Don is known for his vast experience in dealing with labor law matters involving employer/union relationships. His years of experience and practical problem-solving skills provide him the ability to negotiate collective bargaining agreements on behalf of his clients that ensure workforce stability, effective relationships with labor, operational flexibility, and the ability to meet productivity and profitability goals.

Don also assists employer clients in resisting union organizing efforts and in proceedings before the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB).

Don has significant experience with matters involving a wide range of immigration and nationality issues. His immigration practice is primarily focused on business immigration and he works with a wide variety of business ranging from health care institutions to manufacturing entities to technology companies. Don assists employers and individuals with obtaining non-immigrant visas, immigrant visas (permanent residence, and naturalization. He also has expertise in resolving various work authorization issues related to the employee onboarding process like I-9 audits and E-Verify issues.

Don regularly assists employers with OSHA safety and health compliance, OSHA inspection and citation matters, and whistleblower protection program enforcement actions by OSHA. Don provides advice and counsel to employers on various human resources issues and a wide variety of matters involving the employment relationship. These issues involve the application of the various local, state, and federal discrimination statutes, ADA and FMLA situations, wage and hour matters under the FLSA and various state laws, and employee benefit and ERISA issues.
