PROFILE

Sarah Buchanan is an associate with Foulston's transactional and business law practice group in the firm's Wichita office. She works frequently with LLCs, corporations, and partnerships on a broad range of matters including mergers and acquisitions, contract preparation and review, financing transactions, creation of business entities, and general corporate matters. Sarah has assisted clients in agriculture, manufacturing, franchising, construction, technology, and personal services. She has represented clients on both the buy and sell side of mergers and acquisitions, and often counsels small to medium-size companies.

Sarah received her J.D. from the University of Kansas School of Law. During law school, she served as editor-in-chief of the Kansas Law Review and as a research assistant, where she gained experience researching securities law, ERISA, and banking issues. Sarah's law school summers were spent as a summer associate at Foulston, where she gained experience in a variety of practice areas including real estate, renewable energy, litigation, and business.

In her free time, Sarah enjoys spending time with her husband and dogs, tackling DIY projects, and attending concerts.
