PROFILE

Foulston Siefkin partner Wyatt Hoch is an accomplished construction lawyer who is sought after by project owners, architects, engineers, and contractors for projects across the country. Wyatt combines 41 years of experience in construction law with five years of undergraduate study in architecture and hands-on work in the residential home-building industry to provide his clients with practical, goal-oriented counsel. The leader of the firm's Construction team, his transactional and litigation practice encompasses drafting design/build contracts, preparing development agreements, negotiating claims, and resolving disputes through the courts and in arbitration forums. As a member of the American Arbitration Association's national panel for construction industry cases, he frequently serves as a mediator and arbitrator in AAA proceedings.

Wyatt is the first attorney in the state of Kansas to be elected to membership as a Fellow in the American College of Construction Lawyers. Named by Best Lawyers as the "Lawyer of the Year" for Construction Law (2011, 2016, 2019, 2021, 2024) and Construction Litigation (2013, 2017, 2020, 2022, 2024) in Wichita, Kansas, Wyatt stays on the cutting edge of industry developments and loves discovering why designs and products don't work in particular contexts. He is particularly attuned to the drawbacks associated with relying solely on technology.

Wyatt has been involved in some of the most significant commercial, industrial, cultural, and educational projects that have changed the landscape of Kansas over the last three decades. His reputation for excellence also attracts clients with projects all over the nation. In addition to identifying what is – and what is not – crucial in contract negotiations to achieve successful projects, Wyatt is equally practical when advising clients on matters involving construction disputes. A veteran of bet-the-company, multimillion-dollar cases, he understands the unpredictability of trials and juries, and explores all the alternatives with clients in order to determine the best avenue to achieve their goals. He served as lead counsel for a major aircraft manufacturer in a complex construction defect and schedule dispute over its Florida service center; as co-counsel to a Fortune 500 health care company in a 24-day arbitration over the construction of its Ohio headquarters; and secured a favorable verdict for the plaintiff in a 23-day federal court jury trial involving the expansion of a municipal electrical generating plant.

In the community, Wyatt serves on the executive committee of the Quivira Council of the Boy Scouts of America and is an emeritus trustee of the Wichita Botanical Gardens. A native of Kansas, he "bleeds
